Hard Conditions

A day the mill did not choose

Current #11 named three ways inputs go wrong. Missing materials. Hard conditions. Load without repair. Fuel, Demand, and Reserve covered the first and the third from the mill’s side. This page is the second: conditions.

A night that never goes dark. Air that never changes. Heat that never breaks. Noise that never stops. The mill is still asked to mint. The room is working against it. That is not a moral score. That is weather around the five.

Not the later weather files

Dirty electricity, the mouth as an interference field, a persistent antigen — those are later Currents, if they come. This page stays with what anyone can notice tonight: light, air, heat, noise. Do not wait for a specialty Current to lower a shade.

Conditions the mill can use	Hard conditions
A room that goes dark.	A screen that never offs.
Air that moves. A window cracked.	Stale air all day. Move never taken.
Heat that breaks. Noise that pauses.	A mill asked to mint in a furnace.
Weather you can change tonight.	A sixth pillar or a filter we sell.

Correction includes the room

Michael’s how is materials and conditions. Food first is materials. A dark room and moving air are conditions. Get out of the way also means: stop lighting the mill as if it were noon at midnight.

You cannot choose every room. You can choose one shade, one window, one hour without the extra noise. That is enough to begin.

How you keep it

Look at tonight’s room. Light. Air. Heat. Noise. Change one. Mark Sleep and Move as they happened. The mill will notice before a paper does.

Be brave enough to change the room you can

You are not behind. You are not too late. You do not have to win the building. Your mills are still minting every second of every day. Give them one condition they did not have last night.

The question

Will you notice the conditions the mill did not choose? The answer is yours. You can take it. You can leave it. No one can take it for you.

If you take it, change one condition tonight — shade, air, or noise. That is hard conditions, met. That is Correction in the room.

If you want to keep learning, keep flowing with our Currents. Get out of the way is next.
