The vein arrives first

Frederick R. Klenner practiced in Reidsville, North Carolina. In the late 1940s he put ascorbic acid in the vein when a virus had already taken the house. His 1949 paper on poliomyelitis is the door this layer walks through. He later wrote that a lingering cold could be brain pathology — encephalitis he treated as weather in the mill, not as a headline.

Pauling pointed back to him. Riordan’s clinic stood on that vein. Gonzalez taught Correction after the route was already in the record. This page is history. It is not a bag.

Route is not the Program

His layer	Not this page
A molecule the cell already knows, by vein.	A Foundation drip. A dose table.
Case reports from one country doctor.	A proof that replaces licensed care.
The first brick under later clinics.	A sixth public pillar.
Food still first. The five still the day.	A cure claim for polio or encephalitis.

What the layer taught

Oral and vein are not the same job. That sentence already lives in the IV Vitamin Therapy map. Klenner is why the sentence has a date. Do not stop a medicine because a 1949 paper got loud. Do not skip the hospital when the boat is sinking. G6PD and a tired kidney are hard stops for the vein — they wait in the Notes, not on the cover.

How you keep it

Keep Eat. Keep Correction as the how. If a question is about a bag in your own arm, take it to someone licensed who knows that vein. The brain as a molecule problem is next — Hoffer, not a second Klenner.

Be brave enough to honor a maverick without copying the bag

You are not behind if you never heard Reidsville. You are not too late. Your mills are still minting every second of every day. Feed them. The vein is a layer. It is not Tuesday.

The question

Will you honor the vein as history — and still keep Eat as the day? The answer is yours. You can take it. You can leave it. No one can take it for you.

If you take it, name the route without buying it as the Program. That is Klenner, kept as the first layer.

If you want to keep learning, keep flowing with our Currents. Abram Hoffer is next.

Notes

- This is education. It does not diagnose, treat, or claim to cure. It does not claim Klenner cured polio or encephalitis.
- It does not replace your physician, your medications, or the care you already have. Do not delay emergency care.
- If a question is about your own body or an intravenous nutrient, take it to a licensed professional who knows that vein. G6PD deficiency and significant kidney insufficiency are hard stops for high-dose intravenous ascorbate.
- The Foundation does not sell bags, dose tables, or a drip bar. Route literacy is not Metabolic Correction and not a sixth pillar.
