Fuel the mill will not feed a tumor

Thomas N. Seyfried works at Boston College. He reads Warburg as a mill question: some growth prefers sugar and will not use fat the way a healthy cell can. That is Current #27, spoken in a tumor’s language. It is not a cancer protocol. It is not a keto product. It is not MEGA-ATP.

He sat on the same OMNS wall as Michael J. Gonzalez. He spoke in Istanbul in 2026. This page honors the fuel question. The chair next door stays. Do not stop licensed oncology because a mouse study got loud.

A theory is not a bag

His layer	Not this page
Growth that prefers one fuel.	A Foundation cancer stack.
Flexibility the mill already has — #27.	A meter we sell. A diet we brand.
Warburg as literacy, not a sermon.	A reason to skip the oncologist.
Correction remains the how — #52.	A sixth public pillar named keto.

What the layer taught

If a cell can use more than one fuel, a cell that cannot is weather. Eat is still the plate. Glucose is not the enemy of a person who is well. The five are still the day. Florida will name flexibility again under load. This page only names the question.

How you keep it

Keep Eat. Keep Correction. If a question is a tumor in your own body, take it to someone licensed who knows that chair. Richard Z. Cheng is next — the page that kept this room speaking.

Be brave enough to ask about fuel without leaving the chair

You are not behind if you never read a Boston College paper. You are not too late. Your mills are still minting every second of every day. Feed them. The tumor-fuel question is a layer. It is not Tuesday.

The question

Will you treat tumor fuel as a mill question — and still keep Eat as the day? The answer is yours. You can take it. You can leave it. No one can take it for you.

If you take it, eat tonight. That is Seyfried, kept as literacy — not as a protocol.

If you want to keep learning, keep flowing with our Currents. Richard Z. Cheng is next.

Notes

- This is education. It does not diagnose, treat, or claim to cure cancer. It does not print a ketogenic cancer protocol.
 - It does not replace your physician, your oncologist, your medications, or the care you already have. Do not stop, delay, or refuse licensed oncology from this page.
 - If a question is about a tumor in your own body, take it to a licensed professional who knows that chair.
 - The Foundation does not sell meters, oils, or a Seyfried stack. Public teaching stays Metabolic Correction. Flexibility is Current #27. Istanbul is a calendar fact, not a co-brand.
