The mill does not end at the neck

Dominik Nischwitz is a dentist. He treats the mouth as one possible interference field after the five — not as a sixth pillar. Current #35 was that weather. This page is the chair who would not pretend the mill stops at the collarbone. The dentist is a copilot. He is not the captain of the kayak.

We do not name an implant material. We do not recommend an extraction. Eat is still the plate. Metals as weather stay #38.

A mouth is not a SKU

The mouth as weather after the five.	A Foundation biological-dentistry stack.
The mill does not end at the neck.	An extraction we recommend. A material we name.
Dentist as copilot.	A sixth pillar named the mouth.
Correction remains the how — #52.	A It's All in Your Mouth funnel.

What the layer taught

If the mill is quiet, look at the day first. Then notice the mouth as weather — not as the whole story. Maggie Yu is next — eight lessons that rhyme with the five. Her map stays hers.

How you keep it

Keep Eat. Keep the dentist you trust. If a question is a tooth, a metal, or a jaw in your own body, take it to someone licensed who knows that mouth. Do not extract from a Current.

Be brave enough to notice the mouth without making it the Program

You are not behind if you never read a biological-dentistry book. You are not too late. Your mills are still minting every second of every day. Feed them. The mouth is weather. It is not Tuesday.

The question

Will you treat the mouth as weather after the five — and still keep the dentist as a copilot? The answer is yours. You can take it. You can leave it. No one can take it for you.

If you take it, eat tonight. That is Nischwitz, kept as weather — not as a surgery list.

If you want to keep learning, keep flowing with our Currents. Maggie Yu is next.

Notes

- This is education. It does not diagnose oral disease. It does not recommend extraction, implant materials, or a ceramic brand.

- It does not replace your dentist, physician, medications, or the care you already have.
- If a question is about a tooth or a metal in your own mouth, take it to a licensed professional who knows that mouth.
- The Foundation does not sell It's All in Your Mouth, a Swiss clinic door, or a Dome protocol. Current #35 remains the weather. This page is the person. Public language stays Metabolic Correction.
